A BLOODY TRIBUNAL.

By A. W. MACY.

The institution known as the Revolutionary Tribunal was established at Paris in 1792, and was a very prominent feature of the French Revolution. From the time of its establishment up to July 27, 1794, it had condemned 2,774 persons to death. Its victims were of almost all ages and of both sexes. The oldest victim was Counsellor Dupin, aged 97, and its youngest Charles Dubost, a youth of 14. The list of unfortunate victims included many people belonging to the nobility and gentry, among them being Queen Marie Antoinette and Princess Elizabeth, Robespierre, the leading instigator of the bloody tribunal, was deposed from power on July 27, 1794, and from that time until the tribunal was ended, December 15, 1794, only about 100 persons fell victims to it, they being Robespierre himself and his inhuman accomplices.

MAKES A POOR "PRODIGAL"

Joseph Salus Tries to Kiss Sister, but is Taken for Stranger and Severely Beaten.

Webster, Mass.—The return of Joseph Salus of Chicago to his home here after an absence of twelve years was marked by a reception different from that of the biblical prodigal.

Salus desired to surprise his people, and there had been no forewarning of his presence when the door was opened by his sister, now Mrs. Sak. Overjoyed at seeing her, Salus embraced the woman, who screamed, bringing her husband to her side. Salus was floored with a left-hand swing. Before he could recover the angry husband seized the supposed intruder by the neck, dragged him down a flight of stairs, threw him into the street and called the police.

When the time for explanations arrived Salus established his identity and received his welcome home and first aid for his injuries.

Sued for Preventing Marriage. Nashville—Father T. C. Abbott of St. Patrick's church has been sued for $10,000 by Miss Bessie Eatherly, twenty years old, a Protestant, on the charge that he prevented her marriage to J. J. Walsh, a Catholic. Walsh procured a license, but Miss Eatherly charges that Father Abbott refused to perform the ceremony and personally carried the license back to the clerk of court telling him not to issue another. Walsh has since refused to disobey the order of the prelate.

NOTED CATHEDRAL IN SPAIN

Statue of Virgin in the Toledo Wears a Mantel on Which Are Embroidered 78,000 Pearls.

Madrid, Spain—Spain is richer in cathedrals than any other country in the world, and one of the grandest of them all is at Toledo. The Virgin Mary is said to have a special liking for it and to have paid it frequent visits—on one occasion actually putting a new robe on St. Ildefonso, one of the archbishops. In fact the scene is represented in sculpture and painting in all parts of the cathedral, and to preclude all doubt about it, the very stone is shown on which the Virgin alighted. It is incased in red marble and over it is the inscription: "We will worship in the place where her feet have stood."

There are several statues of the Virgin in the Toledo cathedral, each of which is adorned with a gorgeous gown. One wears a mantle upon which are embroidered 78,000 pearls. The massive proportions and ornate architecture of the cathedral at Toledo make it one of the most gorgeous in the world. After the bright glare of the Spanish sunlight, it is marvelous how beautiful is the interior as it comes streaming through 750 varicolored windows. The pavement is of variegated marble and around the walls are twenty-three elaborate chapels.

The greatest artists of Spain labored on this cathedral for six centuries. It is not strange, therefore, that it excites the visitor's enthusiasm. The choir, for example, is decorated with probably the most elaborate wood carving in the world. Around a pavement of white marble rise, on three sides, two rows of seats for the priests, one above the other. Their arms, back, feet, headpieces and railings are exquisitely carved into sacred, grotesque, mythological or historical subjects in bas-relief.

One's first impression on entering the cathedral is most vivid and imposing. Five naves divide the church. The middle one is of great height and the others beside it seem to bow their heads and kneel in token of admiration and respect. Eighty-eight pillars, each as large as a tower and each composed of sixteen egg-shaped columns bound together, sustain the enormous mass of the building.

The architecture of the whole building is homogeneous and perfect, which is a very rare virtue in Gothic architecture. The original plan, in spite of the many years it was building has been adhered to from one end to the other, with the exception of a few arrangements of the chapels, which, however, do not interfere with the harmony of the general effect.

Dog Went 25 Miles for Aid. Gueda Springs, Kan.—Mrs. John Richards was awakened by a dog scratching on her front door. She discovered the family pet of her father at the door and, thinking something was wrong, mounted a horse and hurried to his home 25 miles away. She found her father dying.

Bull Gored Horses to Death. Fayetteville, Pa.—Breaking on iron chain by which he was fastened to the trunk of a tree, an infuriated bull owned by Earl Rabstrom broke down, fence that separated him from two horses that were grazing in an adjacent field and gored them to death.
